School for Theranostics in Nuclear Medicine

22nd – 24th April 2027, Athens, Greece

EFOMP is inviting you to the next ESMPE School in April 2027 in Athens, Greece. The school will be introducing the basic concepts of Theranostics in Nuclear Medicine. The school will cover molecular imaging and targeted radionuclide therapy and the combination thereof into a unified patient-centered personalized medicine approach.

This 2.5 days course will be accredited by EBAMP (European Board of Accreditation for Medical Physics) and is intended for practicing clinical Medical Physicists who are involved in Nuclear Medicine and Theranostics. The school will provide participants with a comprehensive overview of the scientific principles, clinical applications, some historic examples to learn from and emerging developments in theragnostics across a range of diseases. This spans from radiopharmaceuticals basics, imaging biomarkers, to dosimetry and personalized treatment planning in an interdisciplinary approach.

ESMPE has decided that this event will be in a hybrid format. All lecturers will give their talks on-site, but participants can choose if they want to attend the school on-site (limited number of participants) or online, it will be live-streamed.
